

joleaseenterprises.com

joleaseenterprises@gmail.com

Jolease

ENTERPRISES

Alethia Tucker

Featured Author
Keynote Speaker
Personal Development Coach

Alethia Tucker is an author, career coach, entrepreneur and Human Resources director who found her heart's work in helping others.

She has a passion for working with women and young adults, and has developed and taught curriculum for college and career readiness, as well as life skills. In addition, Alethia has spoken on numerous conference and workshop platforms.

Alethia enjoys spending time with her family, as well working with the praise team and youth ministries at church. She also enjoys working with beads. As the owner of Jem Jolease, she designs and handmakes exquisite jewelry. She is married to T. Bertram Tucker, and they live in Maryland with their two children, Kayla and Jordan, and their yorkie Bentley.

Jolease Enterprises was founded by Alethia to bring women together to share their wisdom and find tools to support their growth and wellness. The mission is to help women realize their personal and shared power.

50 Things I Learned on my Way to 50, displays the author's gift for finding revelation in everyday life. From the stories that stir powerful emotions to the ones that make you laugh, one thing that's guaranteed is that you will see aging differently after reading this book. No matter the age, the author encourages you to look for your daily life lessons and value your journey, one experience at a time.

SPEAKING TOPICS:

Triggers, Trauma and Triumph | Moving to the Rhythm of Reinvention
Plug Into Your Journey...Maneuvering Life on Lessons Learned | Leading Like a Lady

AS FEATURED IN:

NEW YORK WIRE

SPEAKERS

WWW.JOLEASEENTERPRISES.COM